

SEEK IMPROVEMENTS
IN METROPOLIS TRACT

At the session of the City Council held last Monday evening a number of important and progressive matters were acted upon.

The fire commissioners requested the Council to make several changes on the fire engine of Company No. 2, and provide an electric siren for the engine.

The matter of the purchase of Company No. 4's old truck was laid over for another week, in order that the Council may meet with the commissioners, who recommend that the city pay $300 for the truck.

A petition was presented from a number of residents of the Metropolis Tract, asking that the city call for bids on street and sewer work in that district. Action on this matter was deferred until next meeting, as it is understood that the residents of the district between School and Vale streets are desirous of the same improvements. The two projects combined will make a bigger job and cut the cost materially.

A complaint about a barking dog on Peoria street between Roosevelt and Evergreen streets, was referred to the police department with instructions to suppress the nuisance.

Seven bids were presented for the construction work on the Vista Grande Park, the Pacific States Construction Company being the lowest bidder. Final action on this matter was laid over until next meeting, to give the park committee a chance to check up with the plans.

The Hurricane Relief committee reported about $50 having been collected at the Daly City Bank from residents. As Daly City's quota is $75, the Council voted $25 from the city treasury for the cause.

The water committee reported some change in the old barn belonging to the city, on Templeton avenue. It will be altered or removed in the near future.

The city engineer was instructed to draw plans to change the location of the safety zone at the top of the hill.

A plan was presented to the street committee from the engineer, compelling sidewalks to be constructed in all places in the west end where the street work is now completed. The plan is being considered and bids will be called for soon.

The Council is now considering the erection of stop signals at San Jose avenue, Mission street, and Hillcrest Drive. As this is a very dangerous intersection, much thought is being given to this improvement.

BALL TEAM CLOSES
SUCCESSFUL SEASON

The Daly City Merchants' baseball team closed their successful summer season last Sunday afternoon with a victory over the D. N. and E. Walters team, the score being 7 to 1. Bill Strand pitched a great game and had a shut-out up to the last inning, when he eased up a bit. The Daly City boys never looked better, both in the field and with the bludgeon.

A few of our baseball stars have lined up with other teams to play winter baseball. Joe Drucker, W. Benedetti, Linhares, Jimmy Keane and Gus Ford have signed up, and Daly City fans will sure be pulling for them to make good.

The Daly City Merchants had a good season, winning a great majority of their games, and let's hope that they begin next season right where they left off. The team has been a credit to this community.

The batteries for the final game were: Daly City, Bill Strand and F. Strand; Walters, Stanley, Curtis and Kelleher.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fonseca entertained a number of their friends at their home, 1060 Brunswick street, last Saturday night, in honor of Mr. Fonseca's birthday.

The parlor and dining room were prettily decorated with huge bunches of dahlias and a six piece orchestra furnished music for the dancing. At midnight a buffet supper was served. Mr. Fonseca received many gifts, and the guests left in the early hours of the morning wishing him many more happy birthdays.

The guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. Ingram, Mr. and Mrs. S. Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. B. Capel, Mr. and Mrs. R. Mackie, Mr. and Mrs. W. Regan, Mr. and Mrs. H. Baumeister, Mr. and Mrs. E. Fonseca, of San Jose; Mr. and Mrs. A. Bodien, Mr. and Mrs. W. Dyer, Mrs. Olsen, Mrs. E. Healey, Mrs. H. Elder, Miss Ethel Dubie, Miss Jean Cherette, Miss Marie Bailey, Miss Katherine Regan, Val Taylor, Walter Baumeister, Sol Less, Joe Wilson, Al Stein, Frank Hall, Leo Taylor, Walter Fonseca and Billy Elder.

TEACHERS' RECEPTION AT JEFFERSON SCHOOL

The reception to teachers given by the members of the Jefferson P. T. A. at the high school last Wednesday evening was a very enjoyable affair, one that will long be remembered by those who were fortunate enough to be present.

The address of welcome was made by the membership chairman of the P. T. A., Mrs. Bentley, who spoke in behalf of the P. T. A., expressing the thanks of the association for the co-operation of the teachers in this great work of child welfare.

Mr. Ferguson responded, thanking the parents for their co-operation, saying that the P. T. A. had done much for the teachers in bringing about a better understanding between the parent and the teacher, by which the child gains better results in the classroom, as the teacher by knowing the parent gains a very good idea of the home from which the child comes, and is in a better manner able to know just how to handle the child.

A short program was then enjoyed. Martin Johnson and Alfred Winters gave a very comic song, "The Dog and the Flea," played to the tune of "Marching Through Georgia," with Mrs. Putney at the piano.

Two vocal solos were rendered by Mrs. Bennett, accompanied by Miss Gowland at the piano, being followed by a reading by Miss Margaret Twisten.

A dance by Miss Frances Poket and Miss Muriel Warren, accompanied by Miss Potter, brought forth a great deal of applause.

Several Scotch number were rendered by Mr. McGregor, which were greatly enjoyed, especially his impersonation of Sir Harry Lauder, and all were greatly surprised to find that we have a real Harry Lauder in our midst. Mr. McGregor was accompanied by Mr. Broom at the piano.

Following the completion of the program, all adjourned to the lunch hall, where the beautifully decorated tables were laden with all the good things to please the eye and satisfy the appetite.

Mr. Bentley, president of the school board, acting as toastmaster, called upon several of the members present, who responded with a few words.

Mayor H. H. Smith was first called upon, and responded with an expression of his appreciation of the many good things that are being accomplished not only in the schools but in the community of Daly City.

Mr. Edwards gave a short talk on the coming games that are to be held on the beautiful new athletic field, saying we had a field to be proud of.

Mrs. Jensen expressed her faith in our football team and her desire to see Jefferson high one of the best, of not the best school in California.

Mr. Woodall, pastor of the Daly City M. E. church, gave a short talk on the connection of the home, the church and the school.

Mr. Van Heusen gave a very interesting story, which was supposed to be a fishing story, but as most fish stories go, the fish got away, and so the audience didn't get the story, but he spoke on other very interesting topics.

Mr. Ferguson told a very interesting Scotch story, and then expressed his appreciation of the wonderful co-operation of the teachers and the good work of the school board in doing all in their power to build up the school and make it a place to be proud of.

Mrs. Putney, president of the P. T. A., recited a very interesting little poem of welcome to the teachers and members of the high school, and requested the co-operation of all parents in this great work.

CELEBRATION IN HONOR OF WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. C. Teal, of 79 Woodrow street, entertained a group of their friends on Friday evening, September 28, in honor of the ninth anniversary of their wedding. On the same evening their little daughter, Audra Mae Teal, entertained several of her little friends in honor of her seventh birthday, which fell on the 25th. The grownups spent the evening dancing to the radio music, while the children enjoyed themselves playing games. The table was prettily decorated in pink and blue crepe paper, with favors for the children to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Teal's guests were: Mrs. A. T. Nyland, Miss Pearl Jones, Mrs. F. Hirschel, Mr. and Mrs. G. Granthum, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sackett, Mr. and Mrs. W. Kirchubel, Mr. Fred Jones, Mr. Art Iversen, Miss May Metcalf and Mr. A. J. Metcalf.

Miss Audra Mae's guests were: Freddie Kirchubel, June Sackett, Jerry Jones, Shirley Jones, Raymond Nyland, Marjorie Granthum, Virginia Rivers, and Curtistine Teal.

Mr. and Mrs. Teal and Audra Mae received many lovely gifts from their friends.

Plenty of Opportunities to Ride Now

GYPSY TRIBES WAR
OVER YOUNG WOMAN

Warfare which broke out between rival Gypsy camps near Colma has caused considerable "spilling of ink," during the past few days, but there has been no bloodshed. As a result of the war between the Gypsy tribes, and their conflict with officers, however, it probable that they will be compelled to seek new quarters, the Gypsies evidently having worn out their welcome in San Mateo county.

The trouble started last Friday, when "Princess" Anna Mitchell was arrested by Constable S. A. Landini on a grand theft charge preferred by "King" Eli, head of a rival Gypsy party. When the officer arrived at the camp he was met by a volley of sticks and stones, but succeeded in getting his prisoner to South San Francisco, where a party of Gypsies followed and staged another demonstration.

"King" George Mitchell, father of the girl, then applied for a warrant for the arrest of "King" Peter Eli, alleging that the latter kidnapped his daughter Anna, in Columbus, Ohio, about a year ago. Because the alleged act was committed in another state, he was refused a warrant.

Chief of Police Jack Doyle, Officer Otto Schramm and Deputy Sheriff Leland Quinlan later went to the Eli camp, and were met with threats of violence by the Gypsies, but the excited tribesmen finally calmed down, and Chief Eli accompanied the officers without further resistance.

"King" Eli told the authorities that he paid "King" Mitchell $2,500 for the girl, whom he wished for a bride for his son, "Prince" James. Eli also claimed that "Princess" Anna left his camp on Thursday night and went to see her father, taking $1,000 in gold from his trunk along with her. Her arrest followed the signing of the warrant.

Mitchell and his band, according to his story, have searched for a year for Anna and her younger sister Rose, who disappeared from their home and were believed to have been abducted by Eli. Following the migration of the Elis westward, they finally found trace of the girls at the Gypsy camp near Colma last week and attempted their rescue.

The girl was finally released on her own recognizance, and it is understood that "King" Eli will face prosecution for kidnapping and also for violation of the Mann Act.

VISITACION VALLEY GAMBLING
PLACE IS SCENE OF BIG RAID

Visitacion Valley, or "Little Tijuana" as it is frequently called, was the scene of a gambling raid late last Saturday night, in which fifty-one men were arrested, according to records on file in the office of Sheriff J. J. McGrath in Redwood City.

Harry Wong, alleged proprietor of the gambling establishment, and his alleged patrons, attempted to flee, but were overcome by officers after a terrific fight. Among the officers who made the raid were Under Sheriff E. Farrell, Deputy Sheriffs J. O'Hanlon and Thomas Maloney and Constable S. A. Landini of Colma.

BURLINGAME SINGER WILL ENTER CONTEST

Clyde Arza Dibble, Jr., aged 21, of Burlingame, qualified in last Saturday's contest in San Francisco in the national radio audition, being one of three young men to be chosen for the final contest. Thus San Mateo county scores again in a radio audition contest, Miss Emilio De Prato, of South San Francisco, being a winner on the coast last year, and second in the national contest.

DALY CITY THEATRE
NEARLY COMPLETED

No theatre on the entire San Francisco peninsula will be more beautiful than the magnificent new Daly City Theatre, now close to completion at Mission and Flournoy streets, according to Messrs. Baron and Nathan, its lessors.

Likewise, the new Daly City motion picture playhouse will enjoy the best of management and the finest pictures obtainable from the studios. Edward B. Baron and Carol A. Nathan bring to this enterprise a thorough knowledge of the operation of such a splendid theatre, based on years of experience in the business.

Baron learned organs through his connection with the concern which operates the Robert Monton organ, a $22,500 instrument which is now being installed in the theatre. Later he became manager for the United Artists San Francisco Film exchange, resigning to assume the position of general manager for Herbert L. Rotchild's Market Street theatres, since sold to West Coast.

Nathan gained his knowledge of motion pictures through his experiences as manager for eleven years for Carl Laemmle's Universal Pictures Corporation in Northern California.

Preston H. Jensen, architect for the Daly City Theatre, has created a most beautiful and unusual plan for the house. All seats are on one floor, and each will give an uninterrupted view of the screen and stage. Every modern convenience and device for the safety and comfort of patrons has been provided. Heating and ventilating plants are of the most approved design.

The opening date late in October will be an event toward which every citizen of Daly City may look with pride.

GRACE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

At the communion service held last Sunday, October 7, there were five new members received by letter from other churches.

On Wednesday evening the members of the Christian Endeavor met at the home of Miss Maidie Irons for the purpose of electing new officers for the ensuing term. On the same evening at 7:30 the Boys' Pioneer Club met at the church and those present were initiated into the required ritual.

On Sunday next the Sunday school will meet at 10 a. m. prompt, when a count will be made of all present who will be helping to attain our quota in the contest which is now on between several other Sunday schools. Our average is 110. Last Sunday being Rally day, we had a percentage of 206. We want all to come and be on time, so as to maintain this record.

Christian Endeavor will meet at 7 p. m. Evening service at 8 p. m. There will be special music by the choir.

MISS PANSY JEWETT ABBOTT
HONORED AT STATE MEETING

At the State School Superintendents' convention held at Del Monte last week, the county superintendents of California organized a unit among themselves, which will be a detail of the county, city and district association, and Miss Pansy Jewett Abbott, county superintendent of schools of San Mateo county, was elected secretary treasurer. The other officers chosen to the new detail were: David E. Martin, of Alameda county, president; H. S. Upjohn, of Los Angeles county, vice-president; A. D. Elmore, of Stanislaus county, and R. E. Goldway, of Sacramento county, two members of the advisory committee to work with the county superintendents.

JUNIPERO SERRA ROAD
BILL WINS APPROVAL

San Mateo county's share of the expenses for the preliminary survey of the Junipero Serra boulevard, and for the continuation of the engineering survey of the tri-county scenic highway from San Francisco to Santa Cruz, were approved last Monday by the county board of supervisors at their regular meeting in Redwood City.

On the first project the expense is divided as follows: San Francisco, $4,250; San Mateo, $750. On the second: San Francisco, $2,750; Santa Cruz, $750; and San Mateo county, $1,500.

A request for a better lighting system in Lomita Park was received in a petition from taxpayers of that community. They ask installation of new 400-candlepower bracket globes with glass canopies, and request that a new budget be set at $150.

The Hanrahan Company was granted a 90 day extension for its improvements in Bay Heights. The Union Paving Company was granted a like extension for the paving of streets in Lomita Park.

The board received a communication asking them to join the Redwood Empire Association's annual caravan to Humboldt county last Wednesday.

CHARITY DAY MEET AT TANFORAN TRACK

It is announced that a committee of prominent San Mateo and San Francisco county citizens will be appointed to work in conjunction with the Tanforan Jockey Club officials to take charge of the arrangements for "Charity day," set for October 20, the second Saturday of the coming racing meet at the Tanforan track, which starts tomorrow, October 13. On the occasion of this "Charity day" meeting, the entire receipts and purses will be contributed to some good cause. President James Coffroth, of the Tanforan Jockey Club made this statement last Tuesday, and stated that he will ask Mayor James Rolph, Jr., of San Francisco, to head the committee.

With the horsemen donating 100 per cent of the purses, over $4,000, that the club will hang up that day, to the cause, the project will be off to a good start.

The thoroughbreds have been arriving for several days, and are getting in shape for the twenty-day racing program which will begin tomorrow, Saturday, October 13. Some of the best horses in the country will be in the contests at the Tanforan track, and the followers of the "king of sports" are assured some interesting events.

BUTANO CANYON IS FAVORED FOR PARK

A portion of Butano canyon and the redwood country north of La Honda and west of Woodside, about 1,000 acres in all, has come under the surveillance of the California state parks council, and is favored as one of the spots to be included in the state-wide park program for which a $6,000,000 bond issue will appear for approval on the November ballot.

Coyote Point, San Mateo, has also been suggested as a state park, and should the bond issue pass, it is expected a movement will be started locally to raise the necessary money to complete the plan.

All the areas in San Mateo county favorably considered by the state park council are privately owned and their preservation for all time as public playgrounds can only be assured, it is pointed out, by putting over the bond issue.

COUNTY HOSPITALS
ON APPROVED LIST

Both the Community hospital at Belmont and the Mills Memorial hospital at San Mateo are one the list of approved hospitals for 1928 made public last Tuesday at Boston, Mass., by the American College of Surgeons. In announcing the list of hospitals in the United States which have won a position on the "approved list," Dr. Franklin H. Marshall, Director General, said: "To the public the announcement of the approved list should be of extreme interest, inasmuch as one out of every ten will need the right kind of hospital care before this time next year." Acceptance on the approved list of the American College of Surgeons means that the hospitals have adopted the basic requirements which insure the best care of the patient.

A total of 157 students completing required work during the summer quarter will receive degrees, according to the recommendation by the Stanford faculty. Of the total, 70 will receive the A. B. degree and 87 advanced degrees.

MOTOR VEHICLE HEAD
SCORES TRAFFIC COPS

Members of the San Mateo county traffic squad came in for some rather severe criticism at the meeting of the board of supervisors last Monday.

According to a communication received by District Attorney Franklin Swart, and brought to the attention of the board, Frank G. Snook, head of the state division of motor vehicles at Sacramento, is "out of patience and disgusted with the traffic situation in San Mateo county and the manner in which the state motorcycle policemen are handling it."

District Attorney Swart told the board that Snook had sent inspectors down to probe into the situation in San Mateo county, and that their report showed conditions extremely serious. Swart announced that Snook "didn't want to fire the officers without word from the county."

The district attorney declared that "San Mateo county's traffic officers are not on the highways and roads as they should be." He said that it was for the moral effect on the county and not in the "spirit of criticism" that he made the statement.

"I would like to know why 200 traffic violation tickets are not accounted for at the traffic bureau in Redwood City," Swart declared to the board. "They must have been either 'fixed,' spoiled or confiscated."

Swart offered a temporary solution for the situation by stating that he thought eight deputy sheriffs under the county sheriff's orders would do the traffic work more effectively than the state organization.

The district attorney told the board that there were eight officers covering 69 miles in this county, and then displayed a map prepared by Snook at Sacramento, showing the overwhelming number of fatal and serious accidents in San Mateo county. He then revealed the following statistics for three counties for the last month:

With eight officers, 64 people were stopped in San Mateo county. Forty-one were arrested for speeding; ten had no lights or only one light; ten violated the "rules of the road," and three were for miscellaneous violations.

Six Santa Barbara officers stopped 363 people in that county; sixty-five were arrested for speeding; 228 had no lights or only one light; 34 violated rules of the road, and 36 were miscellaneous violations.

Five San Joaquin county officers stopped 1,805 people; fifty-nine were arrested for speeding; 1,253 were arrested for light violations; 116 violated rules of the road, and there were 337 miscellaneous violations.

The board went on record as favoring closer co-operation between the state police and city patrolmen in coping with the accident and death situation. It suggested that a meeting be arranged between the two bodies.

Monday's stormy session of the board was a continuation of the traffic situation discussion at the meeting a week previous, when Chairman John Poole declared that the death and accident situation in this county was appalling.

LADIES' AID MAKING PLANS FOR BAZAAR, DECEMBER 7

The Ladies' Aid of Grace Presbyterian church held their monthly meeting last Wednesday afternoon, instead of the first Wednesday, on account of the church dinner being held on that evening, a large attendance being present.

Plans are under way for the annual entertainment and bazaar to be held Friday, December 7, at the church on Hanover street. The regular sale of fancy work, candied apples and cakes will be held during the afternoon. The ladies have been sewing all year and have a large assortment of aprons, pillow cases, scarfs and all sorts of hand work that will make lovely Christmas gifts, so be prepared to do some of your Christmas shopping at this sale. In the evening a very delightful entertainment will be given, including a farce. The members of the Aid are taking the principal parts. Knowing the wonderful talent among the ladies, they will well worth seeing.

After the entertainment the sale will be continued and coffee, cake and ice cream will be served.

This affair is always looked forward to by the young folks as well as the older folks. Be sure and save the date.

FORCED TO PAY RANSOM

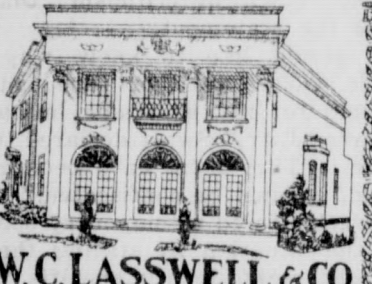

His health impaired by his experience as a captive at the hands of a band of Mexican bandits, Edward J. Brumsted, manager of a mine in the state of Nayarit, Mexico, has been reunited with his wife and three children at Maywood, Cal. Brumsted was held for ransom, and 20,000 gold pesos was paid for his release.

TELEPHOTOGRAPHS FAR
OUTSTRIP AIR EXPRESS

When the Western Air Express made its initial passenger flight from Los Angeles to San Francisco this year, pictures were taken of the passengers as a group just before the plane took off. Three hours later, when the plane arrived in San Francisco and the passengers disembarked, they were each presented with copies of the pictures that had been taken at the time of the hop-off at Los Angeles. The pictures had been sent by telephoto and there had been ample time to have them developed and taken to Mills Field to greet the passengers on their arrival, as it requires only seven and one-half minutes for the actual transmission of the pictures over telephone wires.

BOY SOLDIERS OF SAFETY ORGANIZED FOR FALL TERM

Guiding and protecting their schoolmates, an army of 5,000 youthful soldiers of safety, are fully trained for the fall campaign against accidents involving children on street and highway. They are the members of the public school traffic reserve squads organized by the California State Automobile Association in the schools through Northern and Central California among the older boys of the higher grades.

Their yellow bands on upraised arms are now a familiar sight to every motorist, and their signals at crossings near schools should be respected by every driver of a vehicle. They are on duty before and after school hours and during the noon hour. They are trained to gather school children in groups and guide them across thoroughfares, stopping the flow of traffic as little as possible. They have an enviable record of no child killed or injured at crossings under their care since the first squads were organized six years ago.

Training and organization of the junior traffic officers is sponsored by the Automobile Association, which inaugurated this activity to reduce the traffic toll among children five years ago in San Francisco. With the co-operation of police and school authorities, the plan has since spread throughout the state and has been followed in many other states. The Association has established school boy patrols in schools of every principal city in its territory, and the San Francisco safety corps alone numbers 1,700 children. During the past year this form of protection of school children has been extended to rural schools in every county by the State Motor Vehicle Division, through its traffic force, with the co-operation of the motorists' organization.

With the opening of each new school term, the school boy patrols must be reorganized and new soldiers of safety enlisted to replace those who have graduated. The boys are eager to join the army of safety. Membership is a prize awarded on the basis of scholarship and fitness.

The Association public safety department has announced that the training and organization of squads for the fall term has been completed and motorists will find these junior soldiers of safety on duty at all intersections near schools.

AUTOMOBILE SPEED LAWS
DEFINED FOR MOTORIST

Practically all motorists are aware that forty miles an hour is legal speed on the open highways of California, but there is some question as to the limit in business, residence and restricted areas, according to William R. McWood, general counsel of the National Automobile Club. McWood clears up the points in doubt by the following information:

First of all, McWood states, it is well to recall what the California vehicle act has to say concerning general restrictions as to speed. That is: "Any person driving a vehicle on the public highways of the State shall drive at a careful and prudent speed, not greater than is reasonable and proper, having due regard to the traffic, surface and width of the highway, and no person shall drive any vehicle upon a public highway at such a speed as to endanger the life, limb or property of any person." Motorists should always keep that advice, or warning, as it might be called, in mind, says McWood.

Then there is the matter of the various restrictions in speed, some of them very unfamiliar to many motorists. Fifteen miles an hour is the limit when traversing a grade crossing of any steam, electric or street railway when the driver's view is obstructed. A driver's view, reads the vehicle act, shall be deemed obstructed when at any time during the last 100 feet of his approach to such crossing he does not have a clear and uninterrupted view of such railway crossing and of any traffic on such railway for a distance of 400 feet in both directions from such crossing.

Fifteen miles an hour is again the limit on highway intersections when the driver's view is obstructed, which means in this case, at any time during the last 100 feet approaching the intersection he does not have a clear view of the intersection and of the traffic on all highways entering the intersection for a distance of 200 feet from the intersection.

Fifteen miles an hour is the limit in going around curves or corners of a highway when the view is obstructed within a distance of 200 feet along the highway in the direction he is going.

Fifteen miles an hour is the limit when passing a school while persons are entering or leaving the grounds of the school.

And fifteen miles an hour is the limit in business districts, while twenty an hour is the limit in residence districts.

Just what is meant by business district and residence district is a puzzler to many, according to McWood. Here is the way the California vehicle act defines those districts.

Business district—The territory contiguous to a public highway when 50 per cent or more of the frontage thereon for a distance of 300 feet or more is occupied by buildings in use for business. All roads and highways

PICTORIAL LIFE OF HERBERT HOOVER

No. 7

By Satterfield

1. Herbert Hoover entered Stanford University in 1891. Engineering was his goal.

2. Baseball was his favorite college sport, and he proved an expert at the strategy of the game.

3. His first field work as an engineer apprentice was in the Ozark Mountains, during college vacation.

4. While working his way through college he met Lou Henry, now Mrs. Hoover. She promised to wait.

within the grounds of a State university or State, county or municipal institution shall be deemed to be within a business district.

Residence district—Territory contiguous to a public highway not comprising a business district, when the property fronting on the highway for a distance of not less than one-quarter of a mile is occupied by dwelling houses or business structures which are not more than an average of 100 feet apart. Here the limit is twenty miles.

In this connection McWood points out that every public highway is presumed to be outside of a business or residential district unless it is clearly established otherwise and unless signposted to limit speed.

At present there is considerable agitation to raise the speed limits in certain business and residence districts. Many experts in traffic control are quoted as saying that existing speed laws are obsolete and if obeyed to the mile, would only serve as deterrents to well regulated traffic. It is highly possible that the State Legislature will, in the near future, see fit to raise the limits in order to put California abreast of latest traffic developments, according to McWood.

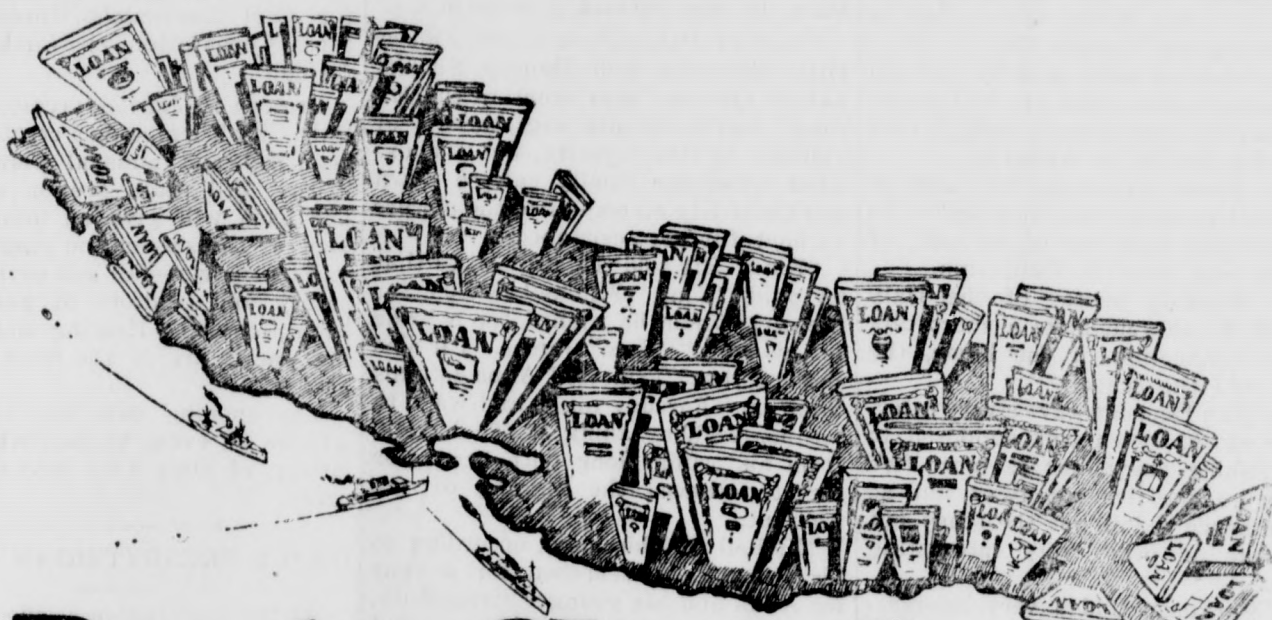

A new telephone exchange in the city of London has been named Gladstone, in honor of Great Britain's noted statesman. Another exchange has been named for Livingstone, and still another for Macaulay.

The United States has about 60 per cent of the world's telephones. Germany comes next with about 9 per cent, Great Britain next with 5 per cent, and Canada next with about 4 per cent. No other single country has as much as 3 per cent of the total number of telephones in the world.

BANKING history has proved that concentration of loans in a single community or one industry does not provide the safety and protection which results from a widespread loaning to widely diversified types of industry. "Diversify your investments for maximum safety" is the cry of the world's leading financial writers today. "Diversify and spread your loans widely" might well be an appropriate slogan for the banks of the world. The Bank of Italy has over a quarter of a billion dollars judiciously loaned on selected first mortgage real estate security in nearly every nook and corner of this vast, rich western empire—from the Oregon line to the Mexican border. Deposit your funds where maximum safety is assured through widespread loans, diversified in character.

"Oh, fly with me!" is one of those fine romantic old phrases that have been sadly altered by modern progress.

"You can't do it," he gasped. "You had your trial and were justly sentenced. You've tried for a new trial and it was denied."

"I tried without the new evidence I am going to submit."

Grant's brain was clearing.

"You have no new evidence."

"I shall have," Sutton returned.

"For what purpose do you suppose I have followed you here if not to get some?"

"You'll get none from me. What's more, I'm expecting two friends here any moment."

"They are hunting for me in the woods miles away. I set a false trail for them to follow. They will not return until daylight. Payson, there is no human help for you here. I have seen to that. We have three hours together. You are going to confess everything to me and I shall have these friends of yours witness it. Although they do not know me, they dare not ignore me when I tell them all."

"They'll send you back to jail."

"If so, it will not be for long."

"You've got things twisted," Grant said eagerly. "If they see you here they've got to send you back. They'd be punished if they withheld the information. Your chance is to go back now. If I wanted to call for help nobody would hear. If you want to keep your freedom make your getaway before they come and find you here."

Grant trembled for the success of his suggestion. Sutton's expression less face and lack of physical violence no longer seemed so terrifying. Perhaps the long prison term had brought him near to insanity. He had so often hoodwinked his former friend in other days that the desire to attempt it at this moment of peril lent him plenty of specious cunning.

He was bold enough now to light a cigarette and sit back in his chair easily.

"Frank," he said, almost as though he had determined to act generously. "I won't try to stop you if you escape now. Every moment you remain here brings you in greater danger of being caught. Any moment some of the help might come in."

Sutton shook his head.

"At this hour? Nonsense. I know how the help's camp is run considering I've been in hiding there. They are all asleep. We have more than two hours; that will be enough for me."

Grant took lost something of its newly-gained assurance. He assumed the character of firmness. Sutton was not to be deceived as readily as he hoped. Grant had allowed himself to be misled because he had looked for a madman lusting for vengeance and had been confronted with one who, instead, expected he would sign a confession.

"We are going to talk this over," Payson Grant remarked. If he were not able to persuade Sutton to make his escape, it might be possible to keep him here until Weld and Trent returned. He did not believe they would remain away until daylight.

In answer Sutton rose to his feet and pushed his chair back. Then he came to Grant's side.

"Fool!" he said contemptuously. "Do you think you can deceive me like that. Don't you realize that I've had years to think over this very conversation and wonder what excuses and subterfuges your pitiful, mean soul would try?"

"What are you going to do?" Grant said. His fortitude was dropping from him. Again he was coming under the influence of profound fear.

"As you won't sign the confession now, I'm going to beat you until you do. Get up."

"You're not going to kill me?" Grant cried. There was the look of anger in the other's eye which left him weak.

"Possibly," said Sutton, "but that depends on you. If you don't sign what frees me from prison, I shan't bother what becomes of you, or me."

The tragedy of his situation dawned on Grant in its full horror. Unless he signed his own commitment warrant he would be beaten, bruised, tortured and finally forced to sign. There seemed no escape. All his life Payson Grant had feared physical pain. When he was suffering he was a coward willing to promise anything for alleviation of his condition. He knew that a man of Sutton's powerful physique would hurt him so badly that he would attach his signature to any document. It was an ordeal by torture, one of those inquisitorial punishments which he had read of as a child.

His hands closed nervously on the butt of the automatic. In this hour of peril he thought, suddenly, that Sutton was an outlaw whom any man might shoot and be certain of approbation. After all, he had proofs in a number of letters that Sutton had threatened him. The world would commend him for killing in self-defense.

Payson Grant fired six shots into the body of the man who had been his friend and benefactor. The range was not more than six feet. He was not made of the material to take joy in killing. The noise startled him. The look of agony on Sutton's face was unnerving. The crash that seemed to fill the house when, in falling, Sutton swept a little smoking table to the ground was horrible to him. From the inside pocket of the dead man's coat he took the confession. He glanced through it. To sign such a document would be to incriminate himself irreparably. He tossed it on a flickering log and watched it flare up.

The paper was still flaming when his door burst open and Weld, followed by Trent, came in.

"What's this?" Weld cried, looking at the crumpled body.

"He attacked me," Grant answered, "and I had to shoot in self-defense."

Trent was kneeling at Sutton's side. "Who is it?" Weld demanded.

"A man who came in and attacked me."

Weld glanced around the room. But for the smoking table there was nothing disturbed.

"Come in and attacked you, eh?"

"Took me utterly at a disadvantage," Grant declared.

Trent rose up from the silent man's side.

"He's dead. He was shot several times and—he wasn't armed. To me it looks like premeditated murder," said Trent impressively.

He pulled a coverlet from the bed and hid the dead man from view.

"It was not murder," Grant cried. "I tell you he came in and threatened to kill me so I had to protect myself. That's the man who gave you that letter for me one night at Deal Beach. You asked if it was a black-hand threat."

"That's not the man," Trent said shaking his head. "Nothing like him. If I were you, Swinton, I'd send for the police or whatever you have here that could take charge. This is nothing less than murder."

"He threatened me, I tell you," Grant cried.

Weld cut short his protestations.

"If I were you," he advised, "I'd keep what I had to say until the sheriff comes. You are in a very bad position and I shall have to repeat what you say and that might damage your case."

"You've got to see those threatening letters," Grant said feverishly looking from one to the other. "They're in that coat."

The two men watched him take out an envelope with an air of triumph. He handed it to Weld. "Read," he commanded.

The envelope was empty.

"What am I to read?" Weld asked.

They allowed him to look into other pockets, but the threatening letters were not there. Sutton must have taken them, he supposed. He told them so.

"Get them," Trent suggested, glancing at the outline under the coverlet. "He can't hurt you now."

But Grant shrank back. The sheriff would find what he wanted.

"Let me get my lawyer on the long distance," he pleaded.

"You must ask the sheriff that," Weld answered.

Grant was conscious that these two men were not regarding him in a friendly fashion. Instead of sympathy, even approbation, it was plain they were already strongly prejudiced against him.

"There has to be an inquest," he heard Trent tell Weld, "and nothing must be moved until the authorities permit it. We'd better go down and telephone for them now."

Grant, a man on each side of him, was taken to the hall where the telephone was. He heard Weld tell some one a murder had been committed.

"They'll be here in an hour," he told Trent.

"You'd no right to say it was murder," Grant protested. "That prejudices them against me."

"It looked like a murder," Trent remarked.

"I owe you an explanation," Grant began, "and you ought to be willing to listen."

"We shall hear it all at the trial," Trent said.

Grant looked from one to the other, wildly. If he had such difficulty in making these men, who had been his friends, believe, how much more trouble would he not have with others?

"The man I had to shoot," he said, "is the man who got ten years in Sing Sing and escaped when he had served nearly three of them. He was Frank Sutton. Mrs. Grant was formerly his wife. Everybody knows he threatened to kill me."

"Why?" Weld snapped.

"He thought I had done him an injury," Grant faltered a little.

"Had you?" Trent demanded, looking him full in the eye.

"I was his best friend," Grant returned, more firmly.

"It's my opinion," Trent said, "that you'll have some difficulty in making a jury believe it was necessary to empty your automatic into the heart of a man who had neither gun, knife nor other weapon with him."

"Another thing," said Weld, "it isn't going to be easy to explain why you didn't call for help. Trent and I were both in the hall, smoking. If you had called we should have heard. Apparently you made no sort of attempt to summon help. Juries get curious over things like that."

"It was too sudden," Grant explained. "I had no time. It was his life or mine."

"And he wasn't armed?" Contempt was in Weld's tone.

"How could I know that? I haven't taken a chance. Who would after knowing the desperate sort of man he was? I tell you he threatened me in open court as you can read in the newspaper report of the trial. I'm going to call up my lawyer." Grant moved toward the telephone.

"Not till we have the sheriff's permission," Trent said. Grant felt himself forcibly propelled toward a closet where a store of logs was kept. He was thrust in. The key was turned on him. In vain he beat half hysterically against the heavy oak door. Finally he sat on a pile of logs in the darkness. He could not understand why he had been so treated. He would sue for damages; he would expose their high-handedness. But these threats gave him little comfort. Naticia would get enough of the wrong sort of notoriety now. Sometimes the course of justice was unaccountably perverse. He might not get acquitted after all. He sat brooding unhappily on his troubles until his dungeon door was flung open and he was hauled, blinking, into the light.

There were three strangers gathered about the blazing fire. One wore a sheriff's badge; a second was his deputy. The third man, whom they addressed as "doctor," was a keen-eyed man of strong build and middle age. He looked at Payson Grant very shrewdly. It was a glance that was not easy to meet.

"And this is the murderer!" he commented.

Making Angling Easier

A recently invented fishing-reel automatically retrieves the line after a cast by means of a spring wound as the plug on the line travels through the air. The tension produced is sufficient to wind the reel again even after casts of fifty to sixty feet. A lever control releases the spring and stops it to prevent backlash.

Banana Employed by the Serpent in Eden?

"Early inhabitants of the East believed that the banana plant was the source of good and evil and that the serpent which tempted Eve hid in a bunch of the fruit," according to W. T. Pope of the Hawaii experiment station of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Undoubtedly this legend influenced the early classifiers who designated two species of the plant as musa paradisiaca (fruit of paradise) and musa sapientum (fruit of knowledge). The common name, "banana," was adopted from the language of an African Congo tribe, and first came into use during the Sixteenth century. Prior to that time the fruit was called "apple of paradise" and "Adam's fig."

The name "banana" seems to have been borne for a long period by the fruit, which was eaten raw. The term

"plantain" was given to a variety which, though closely related to the banana, is edible only after being cooked.

The generic name "Musa" for the banana group was bestowed by the botanist Linnaeus in honor of Antonius Musa, a learned physician of the early Roman empire.—Chicago Journal.

RUNNING THE TOWN

There are always a few people in every town or city who complain that a certain set of men want to "run the town." But those who kick most are usually those who do nothing to assist in the civic work of their community.

Many who never attend a public meeting, or even take the trouble to vote, will stand on the street corners and criticize their more active and patriotic neighbors who do try to get necessary things done.

Running the town is not such a delightful pastime as some imagine, and the leaders in every community are men who sacrifice their time and contribute their money to assist movements for the public welfare.

Those who are dissatisfied with their present leadership should get busy and give a hand, instead of criticizing from the side lines.

THOUGHTLESS CRUELTY

A recent news dispatch told of Teresa Corona, 14 years old and six feet tall, who ran away from school and home to get away from the ridicule of her fellow pupils. Thoughtlessly her associates have made her the victim of a heartless tragedy.

It was hard enough to bear the self-consciousness and the embarrassment which the child's abnormal size made inescapable, but those who made her burden greater by their derision were unspeakably cruel.

Thousands of instances like this occur, where some physical defect or peculiarity of sensitive persons is used as a pretext to torture them with unkind remarks which cut to the quick. We read some time ago of a young girl who finally committed suicide because she had been driven to desperation by ridicule of her family name, which had a suggestive meaning to evil-minded persons.

Children will seize upon such opportunities to harass their associates, sometimes in a spirit of fun, but often with a vicious intent. While most parents would disapprove of such conduct, many do not take the trouble to explain to their children how really cruel it is, or appeal to their better natures to induce them to refrain from it.

Unnecessary infliction of mental suffering is as bad or worse than the infliction of physical pain, and children should be earnestly admonished to avoid both forms of cruelty.

People who are intelligent enough to acquire a large vocabulary should also be intelligent enough not to use it.

It would be so disappointing if the radio announcer failed to give the number of his kilocycles, etc.

WASTE IN SKYSCRAPERS

We have been under the impression all along that American skyscrapers were about the last word in efficiency, so far as utilizing space was concerned. Now comes an eminent engineer to tell us that they are monuments to waste.

The critic referred to is Harlan Bartholomew, city plan engineer of St. Louis, who urges that cities should be spread out instead of being built higher into the air.

He points to New York as having spent already $500,000,000 for subways, with congestion greater than ever before, and declares that this congestion is costing the city a million dollars a day. In proportion to population this "congestion tax" is equally great in many other cities.

The problem of handling traffic has become one of serious concern in all centers of population, where people and vehicles swarm like bees in a hive. Those who live in smaller communities have some advantages, after all, not the least of which are fresh air and elbow room.

RADIO MAIL LISTS

Many radio fans are wondering what has caused such a great increase in their circular mail, according to a business magazine, which goes on to explain the matter.

Some announcers make lists of radio listeners who write in to their stations with requests for certain pieces to be played, or send for booklets, souvenirs or advertising matter. These lists are then sold to dealers in radio equipment and parts, who are thus able to get in touch with these prospective customers.

As radio owners are generally of a class able to buy liberally, these lists are resold to dealers in all manner of merchandise as likely customers for their wares also. So the radio fan's name goes on and on. Finally graces many a "sucker list."

Due to the scarcity of rural doctors, many country people still retain their tonsils.

THE ECONOMY OF FLYING

"On the coast to coast flight," says Art Goebel, pilot of the "Yankee Doodle" on her recent cross-continent flights, in Forbes Magazine, "we never had the slightest reason to feel any sense of danger. Flying will become continually safer as thought and experience develop new safety devices. Much already has been done this year along these lines. Experienced pilots do not feel any greater sense of risk than drivers of motor cars feel. I expect increase of speed as well as safety, but probably the practical commercial long-distance speed will not at once be greater than is required for a dawn-to-dusk or dusk-to-dawn across-continent flight. What would be the use? And this is even now commercially practical as we have shown. Aviation is the cheapest form of high-speed transport. The initial investment, owing, among other things, to the fact that flying needs no roadbeds, bridges or much of any other permanent plant along the way, barring not very expensive lighting for night flying, is incomparably low. Presently each ton mile will be flown for less than a ton mile can be run on rails or in trucks at any high speed."

X-RAYS AND CHICKENS

New breeds of chickens, larger and more productive as layers than any now in existence, are believed to be possible of development through the agency of X-rays, as a result of experiments by Dr. Diefenbach of New York.

Among the phenomena resulting from exposing Plymouth Rock eggs to X-rays before hatching, it was observed that nearly every chick was a female. When the eggs were exposed to the rays for a longer period, many surprising freaks were hatched. While all were healthy, some had no wings and there were other deviations from the normal which would have required many generations of breeding to produce.

A large number of hens hatched from X-ray treated eggs attained greater weight than usual and began to lay earlier. Dr. Diefenbach is continuing his experiments in the belief that with the aid of X-rays he will be able to produce new species of chickens superior to any now known.

This is merely another of the possibilities presented by the mysterious properties of various light rays, the existence of which were hardly dreamed of a few years ago.

REDUCTION OF CRIME

The writer of a recent article depicting the deplorable crime conditions that exist in Chicago stated that in 1926 and 1927, murders had been committed in that city to the number of 760, and that only ten persons had paid the supreme penalty for their crimes. Further, that convictions were obtained in only 22 per cent of the cases and these for crimes of lesser degree than murder. It is probable that the murder crop in that city will equal, if not exceed, that of the past.

Nor is Chicago alone in its crime record. In all of the large cities and in the country as a whole the number of murders, robberies and lesser crimes committed is becoming appallingly large. Every day upon the front page of the daily papers there are seen accounts of deeds unbelievably atrocious and brutal, even the descriptions of which are enough to cause the average person to shudder with horror, and yet, in many cases, the perpetrators go unpunished.

Why in a comparatively prosperous nation, where poverty could hardly be named as the stimulus, does there exist such a large amount of unlawfulness? There have been advanced numerous reasons. Before the eighteenth amendment those who wanted prohibition blamed the saloons; since the eighteenth amendment, prohibition comes in for a large part of the blame.

Others lay the fault at the doors of our legal system. Doubtlessly, there lies an important contributing factor. From a day when a suspect of crime was meted out swift punishment without reasonable deliberation of investigation, it seems that there has been a switch to the almost opposite extreme. The accused is safeguarded on every side. Innocence is assumed until the guilt is proven to the satisfaction of twelve men. The failure of the court to observe the most minute technicality gives a right to a new trial. The decision may be appealed to the higher courts. Shrewd lawyers find many loop-holes of escape in the law. Besides, the calendars of the courts are over-filled, and as a result is often many months and even years before the case is finally decided or comes up for trial. In many instances with the lapse of time the baseness of the crime is forgotten and public sentiment is entirely in favor of the criminal, which, undoubtedly, has an effect upon the decision of the jury. Too often, hardened criminals are set free or given short terms, and then gain freedom to continue their depredations upon society.

Of course, the vision of a nation entirely free from crime is utopian in its conception. Yet, the percentage of crime that exists in the United States could be greatly reduced. The problem that it presents is of vital importance and is well worth the study of every citizen, especially since it is one of the peoples' most expensive burdens.

The quickest paths to the reduction of crime lie most likely through a speeding up of our legal systems, getting rid of superfluous laws and unimportant technicalities, restricting immigration, and finally and most important, education. An education that will give the students and future citizens of this nation not only a broad conception of the arts and the sciences, but will tend towards the strengthening of their characters and imbue them with the ideals and principles of American citizenship. H.

RESULTS SEEM DISAPPOINTING

Compulsory automobile liability insurance has been advocated because it is alleged that it will assure the financial responsibility of drivers, reduce accidents, and lower insurance costs.

While thirty-eight states have voted down proposals for such compulsory insurance, only one state, Massachusetts, has established state-wide compulsory liability insurance.

The value of such a law is questionable. It makes many citizens buy insurance unwillingly. It makes insurance companies issue insurance on undesirable risks. It makes insurance agents do more work for less pay.

It affords no protection to citizens against the recklessness of drivers of cars from other states. It prevents no accidents, as more people were injured and killed in Massachusetts in 1927 than in 1926, although there were fewer cars licensed. It has caused the insurance companies such serious losses that no decrease in insurance cost can be expected—rather the reverse.

When a telephone company proposed to change the name of a telephone exchange at Braddock, near Pittsburgh, dry residents of the community entered a vigorous protest. The new name proposed was Brandywine.

Getting down to bed-rock, geology is perhaps the hardest subject in the curriculum.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Ramaciotti, Mr. and Mrs. F. Podesta and family, Mrs. Rose Lagomarsino, Mrs. L. Gotelli, Mr. B. Servetto and Leo Nanni, all popular Colma residents who toured Italy, Spain, France and many other interesting places during the past several months, have returned to their respective homes and are now settled once again among their friends. They all report many interesting incidents, and have some fine imported laces, linens, photographs, jewelry and various collections of antiques as a remembrance of their trip.

John Sisk, of Colma, is at the Mission Emergency hospital, critically injured, while police are searching for a hit and run autoist who struck him down at Sixteenth and Guerrero streets, San Francisco, early Tuesday morning. Witnesses informed police that the driver of the car, a large green sedan, swung around the corner at high speed and dragged Sisk on the fender for a distance of nearly 100 feet. When Sisk finally fell off, the driver sped on faster than ever, turned the corner a block away and disappeared.

ISODOR GOTTFRIED RETIRES

Mr. Isidor Gottfried, of Daly City, United States R. F. D. carrier No. 1 at Colma, retired from his position on Thursday of last week, October 4, after fulfilling seventeen years of faithful service to Uncle Sam, and is now one of the many listed on the government's honor roll of pensioned men, whose duties have been particularly performed with care and caution.

During the year 1910, Mr. Gottfried was appointed letter messenger carrier from the branch office at Daly City to the Colma post office, which at that time was under the excellent supervision of Mr. Taylor, postmaster. The position was for only several months, as the late Mr. George Wright of F street, R. F. D. carrier at that time, was suddenly taken ill and his duties were taken over by Mr. Gottfried. In 1911, civil service examination was held for R. F. D. Carrier No. 1 for the Colma post office, which Mr. Gottfried passed with a very high mark, and from that time he has served the U. S. government with his best efforts, which will always be remembered.

For seven years Mr. Gottfried was under the mastership of Miss Josephine Armanino, now Mrs. John Cleri of San Francisco, and assistant, Miss Violet Ver Linden. Upon her resignation the position was accepted by Mr. William Moury, the well known and popular druggist, with the assistance of Miss Nettie Conserva, Mrs. Adele Benedetti, Miss Violet Ver Linden and Miss Marie Onita. After Mr. Moury's term of six years were fulfilled, the office was accepted temporarily by Miss Diva Funge, acting postmaster for almost a year. In January, 1926, the position of postmaster was commissioned by President Coolidge to Miss Violet Ver Linden, with the assistance of her sister, Miss Fabian Ver Linden, the popular and well known daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph E. Ver Linden, of Annie street. The Ver Linden girls were raised and educated in Colma, and are serving the public in an efficient manner, greeting every one with a smile.

Mr. Gottfried served under Miss Ver Linden for over three years.

Mr. George Bertucci, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Bertucci, of San Pedro avenue, is now substituting in Mr. Gottfried's place.

THE GIRLS' CLUB DANCE

On Wednesday evening of last week the San Francisco Girls' Club presented a big three act comedy, "The Fascinating Fanny Brown," which was followed by a dance, at the Native Sons Hall on Mason street. The hall was filled to capacity and every one present seemed to enjoy every minute of the entertainment. The club is composed of many members from San Mateo county. Young ladies who are interested in all outdoor sports and this county can well be proud of the members, as they are doing wonderful work in the athletic field.

Those in the cast were Hal Enos, Louis Pacelli, William Huddo, Laura Giesman, Isabel and Evelyn Alison, Esther Kelley, Jacqueline Pacelli and Thelma Odgers.

Those acting on the committee and who are deserving of much credit for the social as well as the financial success of the evening were Misses Fabian Ver Linden, Olive Burwell, Charlotte Burns, Laura Gresham, Mona Kelley, Mr. Robert L. Halstead, Thelma Odgers, Jacqueline Pacelli, Mr. Ralph I. Ebner, Mr. Seymour J. Saltz, Mrs. Ann Eastman, Mrs. Bille Hornlein.

The excellent music was furnished by Al Stein's famous orchestra.

At the regular business meeting last Thursday evening, a Columbus day dance and reception was held at their club rooms on Divisadero street, in San Francisco. Arrangements are also under way for another dance to be held in November, the date of which will be published later.

OPERATOR'S BRAVERY SAVES BURNING TOWN

A $30,000 fire which recently destroyed a portion of the town of Lafayette, Cal., gave Miss Marie Michaut, telephone operator at that place, the opportunity to show "the stuff she was made of." The fire started at the Lafayette Hotel and threatened the Lafayette exchange. While she was endeavoring to summon aid from surrounding towns, the heat and smoke became so terrific that the telephone operator fainted at her post, but it was, in part, due to her valiant work that the town was saved from total destruction. During the height of the fire a 250-gallon distillate tank exploded in the rear of the hotel and the fire from this added also to the danger of Miss Michaut in her efforts to serve the public.

OLD FOLKS SAY DR. CALDWELL WAS RIGHT

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice.

He treated constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a combination of senna and other mild herbs, with pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs?

A bottle will last several months, and all can use it. It is pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. Elderly people find it ideal. All drug stores have the generous bottles, or write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. BB, Monticello, Illinois, for free trial bottle.

Prudence

"Did you ever speculate in Wall street?"

"No," answered Mr. Dustin Stax. "I disapprove of gambling. I never risk a dollar without knowing what is going to happen and without being in a position to facilitate the procedure."

Acidity

The common cause of digestive difficulties is excess acid. Soda cannot alter this condition, and it burns the stomach. Something that will neutralize the acidity is the sensible thing to take. That is why physicians tell the public to use Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

One spoonful of this delightful preparation can neutralize many times its volume in acid. It acts instantly; relief is quick, and very apparent. All gas is dispelled; all sourness is soon gone; the whole system is sweetened. Do try this perfect anti-acid, and remember it is just as good for children too, and pleasant for them to take. Any drug store has the genuine, prescriptional product.

PHILLIPS Milk of Magnesia

The Tease

The late Gov. Austin Peay of Tennessee was a bitter opponent of evolution, short skirts and bobbed hair. At a Baptist supper in Nashville a pretty girl tried to tease the stern and handsome governor.

"Oh, for the days," she said, "when men were men!"

"And women weren't," said he.

CALIFORNIA NEWS BRIEFS

The Historical Foundation of California, formed in San Diego to enrich and perpetuate knowledge of the state's history, filed articles of incorporation with Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan.

Daniel Blood, for several years assistant secretary of the State Board of Health, last week submitted his resignation, effective October 1, to Dr. Walter M. Dickie, State public health director. Blood will leave the health service to become chief of accounts for the State Department of Natural Resources.

The value of California automobiles has decreased $20 each during the past year on the basis of a compilation of county assessors' statistics made public at Sacramento by the State Board of Equalization. A total of 1,469,297 cars are assessed at $271,419,865 for the purposes of current local taxation, while in 1927 1,323,796 cars were assessed at $270,449,169. Thus, the average value has shrunk from $204 to $184.

Attorneys Frank A. Sievers and Richard Cantillon, associates in the defense of William Edward Hickman, convicted slayer of Little Marion Parker, will present petition asking for an order to allow them to appeal the Hickman conviction to the United States Supreme Court. If the order to stay the hanging of Hickman, fixed by the court for October 19, is granted, it will require at least six months to have the appeal heard by the United States Supreme Court, the attorneys said.

Leo P. Kelley, butcher boy recently sentenced to be hanged on November 23 for the murder of Mrs. Myrtle Melus, society matron, will not die on that date. On motion of S. S. Hahn, attorney for the convicted youth, a transcript of all the testimony at the trial recently was placed in the hands of the California Supreme Court, which will review the case. This action automatically may stay execution of sentence for as long as eight months.

There are at least 3,000 blind persons now in California and slightly over 400 of them are in physical and mental condition to benefit by State vocational training. Such are the preliminary findings announced recently in the adult blind survey being conducted under the supervision of Mrs. Anna L. Saylor, director of the State Department of Social Welfare. The survey will continue for at least two months more.

Experts for some time have been examining California children to see if they can meet the requirements of the present school system, and the time is now at hand when they ought to examine the school system to see if it meets the requirements of the youngsters. That is the gist of comment by William John Cooper, State superintendent of public instruction, in urging that the Governor appoint a special commission to study the entire California educational program from the standpoint of modern needs.

Appointment of H. L. Carnahan, Los Angeles attorney, member of the California Tax Commission and former State Corporation Commissioner, to succeed Buron R. Pitts as Lieutenant Governor was announced a few days ago by Governor C. C. Young. News of Carnahan's elevation to the office was given out coincidentally with the Governor's statement accepting Pitts' resignation. Pitts leaves the Lieutenant Governorship following his election to the office of District Attorney of Los Angeles county.

Discovery of fossils showing that mastodons or mammoths roamed the hills of Marin county, Calif., some 250,000 years ago was announced last week by scientists of the University of California. The fossils, which were found to contain a mastodon tooth, two vertebrae, a tusk of a mastodon or a mammoth, three mastodon teeth and a horn fragment from a prehistoric bison were turned over to R. A. Stirton of the University Museum of Paleontology, and V. L. Vanderhoof, geologist and collector. The strata from which the fossils came indicated the animals lived probably a quarter of a million years ago.

Complaints made to the State division of labor of the department of industrial relations during the two years ending June 30th, last, totaled 64,356, an increase of 17,283 over the previous two years. These figures are contained in the biennial report of Will J. French, director of the department, to Governor C. C. Young. Eighty nine out of every 100 complaints are against persons falling to pay wages. In all the division handled 67,189 complaints about wage payments, 2,160 complaints against private employment agencies, 2,001 complaints about the violation of the eight-hour law for women, and 1,374 child labor complaints.

Healdsburg, Calif., is moving towards the Pacific Ocean at the rate of twenty miles per 5,000,000 years. The discovery of this movement by Prof. I. B. Clark of paleontology department of the University of California was confirmed last week by Dr. G. R. Mansfield of the United States Geological Survey. The movement was said to be a thrust of a part of the earth's crust near Mount Diablo toward the surface in adjoining localities. At this rate of speed Healdsburg should be a Pacific seaport in 3,750,000 years.

STRANGE DOGS

The first Dingo dog sang this verse:
I'm not a dog, no, I'm not a dog,
For I'm a Dingo dog, a Dingo dog.
And my brother, my dear brother,
Is another, is another.

Then the second Dingo dog sang the same verse, and then they sang it together, and the chorus was simply:
Bow-wow, bow-wow, now, all together,
Bow-wow-wow.

And then both sang again and this was their song:
We're friends in the zoo,
As doubtless you're, too,
For we seldom growl, and you never howl.

The Dingo dogs said they had seldom, seldom, seen their visitors, the children, scowling.

"Yes," said the second Dingo dog, "we both come from Australia."

"So we both do, you see," said the first Dingo dog.

"Over in Australia they sometimes call us the wild dogs," said the second Dingo dog.

"And we are wild dogs, too," said the first Dingo dog.

"We're plain yellow dogs with no silly airs or graces," said the second Dingo dog.

"It's enough that we're dogs, and Dingo dogs, wild dogs of Australia, and that we're yellow," said the first Dingo dog.

"Quite enough," said the second Dingo dog.

So they both barked, made friends in their own peculiar way with the other animals in the zoo and then the first Dingo dog said:

"What's the news?"

"What do you mean?" the other animals asked.

"Well," said the first Dingo dog, "what is there to tell us? What is going on? What is there going to be going on—you know—the news."

"The news," repeated the second Dingo dog.

"Well," said one of the animals, "we're fed by the keeper and we sleep and we eat—of course we eat when we're fed like sensible animals do."

"People come to look at us and hear of what we do and from where we first came."

"Ah," said the first Dingo dog, "we're important, we are. We are the news!"

"They come to see us and to hear about us."

"Good! Well, we'll tell them we're Dingo dogs and they can see with their own eyes that we are yellow in color."

"Name Please!"

In this game some one commences to tell a story in the following manner: "There was a man and his name was Norman. He had a donkey—"

Here the other players cry—"Name, please!"

"And its name was Neddy. He also had a pig—"

"Name! Name!"

"Norman; a hen, Naomi; a goat, Nancy, and a horse."

"Name, please!"

"Nathaniel. Then he had a cat, Nora, and she had five kittens. Pretty little kittens, too—"

"Names, please!" roar the listeners, and the story teller realizes that he has blundered into a "hole." He thinks very hard, for they must be proper names, and he must not repeat one of those already given. If he makes an attempt he may come forth valiantly with—"Nero, Nadine, Nell, Neil, and Neta."

Some one makes a list of the names given by each story teller. When each player has told a story—each story finishes when the teller is "stumped" for another name—he or she who found the most names is the winner.

Naturally, the second story teller should choose a different initial for his names.

What Is It?

My first is in honey but not in bee,
My second is in ocean but not in sea,
My third is in lorry but not in cart,
My fourth is in pie but not in tart,
My fifth is in drawer but not in box,
My sixth is in heaven but not in fox,
My seventh is in day but not in night,
And my whole is a thing which you hail with delight.

Answer: Holiday.

The Moral

"Pa, won't you please help me with my Sunday school lesson? It's about Noah and the flood, and we've got to say what the story teaches us."

"Why, that's easy, my boy. Obviously it teaches us that we should always provide for a rainy day."

FOUR CLEVELAND GRIDDERS RETURN

Coach Jack Wilce Chuckles at Glowing Prospects.

Jack Wilce, in his sixteen years as Ohio State football coach, has had his troubles.

Losing teams are bothersome, and fans forget the championship eleven of eight and ten years back.

The triumphs of the past can't satisfy the rousing appetite of "Beat Michigan," "Beat Illinois," in the giant concrete horseshoe stadium at Columbus.

But as Doctor Wilce previews his material for the coming season, his last an Ohio State coach, he can't help but chuckle in anticipation of the fine football talent he's getting from Cleveland.

Headed by Leo Raskowski, the all-American tackle, the Fifth City battalion contributes more players to the Buckeye forces than any other city with the exception of Columbus.

Besides Raskowski, one of the great-est of Ohio State linemen, three other Clevelanders will return already having won their varsity "O's. They are: Howard Kriss, Cyril Surina and Walter Schmidt.

Kriss is the former Shaw high half-back, who will be remembered by Ohioans for his spectacular run in the Chicago game last year of 50 yards to the goal line where he outleaped two taller Maroon defenders, caught a forward pass from Robin Bell and scored the touchdown which gave State one of its two Big Ten victories.

Surina is an end, a former East Tech player, Schmidt, an end who has been remodeled into a guard and center, played at West Tech, while Raskowski captained East High in 1924.

Two Cleveland freshmen of last year who are expected to deliver this season are Reese Dill, former Lakewood star, an end, and William Griffith, of Shaw, a 215-pound guard. Dick Follett, former East High griddler, is also expected to bid for an end position if he returns to school.

Byron Eby, Harold Kruskamp, Howard Kriss, Art Huston, George Fouch, Coffee Cory, Hieronymus and McClure are veteran backfield men returning. The yearlings offer Allen Holman a choice for quarterback.

Raskowski, Young, Alber, Schmidt, Scheer, Carlin, Cox and Nesser are varsity linemen returning. Fred Barrett is an excellent 215-pound candidate for center from the freshman ranks, while Griffith, Dill and Reibout are other potentialities.

Ohio State plays only two big Ten games at home this year, meeting Michigan and Iowa, but plays Princeton in Columbus for the first time. Three conference teams to be played on the road are Illinois, Northwestern and Indiana.

Hawley Gets Leave to

Again Coach Dartmouth

Jess B. Hawley, coach of football at Dartmouth for the last five seasons and four times victor over Harvard in the Green's big game, will tutor the Hanover eleven again this fall, Harry P. Menage, supervisor of athletics at Dartmouth, announces. Hawley has obtained a leave of absence from the radio firm of which he is a director enabling him to be with his team until Coach Jess Hawley.

November 24 when the big Green eleven will close its season with a game against Northwestern at Evanston. Hawley feared the leave would not be granted.

Minnesota Needs Back to Fill Out Good Team

"Last year's squad leaves us only a couple of first string ends, a first-string tackle and a first-string guard," declares Dr. C. W. Spears, Minnesota coach. "We have to find a right tackle, center and left guard. If we develop these men and find a couple of ball carriers to add to our backfield we will have a fighting chance in our six conference games. Otherwise we will be lucky to break even."

Minnesota needs big, fast backs more than anything else. I don't know where they are coming from. Some of the candidates may develop into polished players, but with those I saw in spring practice it's about a toss up. They may come through and they may not. We are starting the season with Mr. If in five positions, and we may have to go right through with the same guy in the same position."

Very few things are harder to put up with than the annoyance of a good example.—Mark Twain.

Nothing so needs reforming as other people's habits.

GIVE CHILD GOOD START

Americans are called "high feeders." As statistics tell us that no other nation has so many who are overweight and diabetic as we have, it must prove that we are greatly interested in food. Such being the case, it behooves ever mother to see that her child is trained to eat the right kind of food and in the right amounts.

We know many children who refuse to eat foods that all dietitians tell us are good for us. How shall we get them to eat such foods? One of the first things to do to obtain such results is to eat them yourself.

The parent who refuses foods because he does not like them can only blame himself when the child refuses to eat them.

It should not be necessary to stress the fact that all foods should be appetizing. Many children take a dislike to milk because it has tasted some that had an unpleasant flavor, or it might have been slightly sour. When such is the case, time, patience and ingenuity will be required to overcome such dislike.

Forcing a child to eat food to which he has taken a dislike is worse than useless. Begin by changing the child's attitude toward food, by stories, pictures and booklets. Child welfare agencies are distributing such literature. The pictures of well, healthy children, how they eat, exercise and sleep, and the child of wrong habits, will make a great impression upon a child's mind.

One habit which must be broken if already formed is the pernicious candy-eating habit. The sugar which we need in our diet is supplied by starchy foods and these are taken care of in our bodies and changed to useful sugar.

The child who is made ill by certain foods is an entirely different matter. Such foods should be avoided for some time and often the sensitiveness will be overcome. These problems should be attended to by the family physician.

If there were no higher motive than to make a child more livable with, it would be worth while to train him in health habits. Nobody loves a disobedient, willful, peevish child—nobody but his mother.

The most effective way to get your child to like and eat all kinds of good food is to eat them yourself; never speak of disliking this or that food and so avoid starting such a habit in the children.

Often the parents themselves are responsible for the child's dislike for certain foods. Begin with them when infants—feed them various foods in cream soups until the taste for them is acquired.

Seasonable Good Things.

Even the potato, the common fruit of Mother Earth, is more often ruined in the cooking than properly cooked and served as a fluffy delectable vegetable, or a snowy ball mealy and hot.

New potatoes are scraped before cooking, every eye and spot removed; old ones are peeled very thinly, as much of the real value of potato lies nearest the skin. Many prefer to cook potatoes in their jackets and when cooked in a waterless cooker they are something entirely different in flavor to the usually served potato.

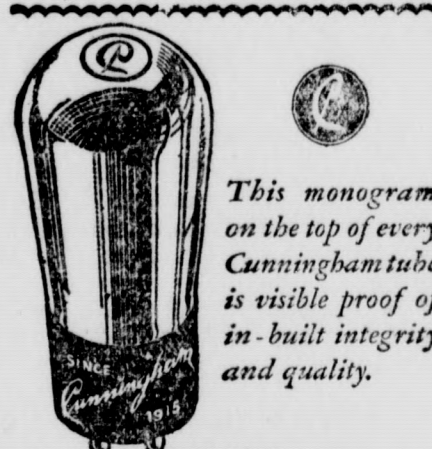

Potatoes to be boiled should be placed in lightly salted, boiling water and when tender drained and shaken over the heat to remove all steam. This will insure a mealy potato. If they are not to be served at once place in the oven or heater and cover with a hot towel. Where potatoes are put on to cook in cold water, allowed to simmer and stew and often boil dry before they are cooked, then more water, often cold, is added, is it surprising that we have so many dishes of poor potatoes?

Grape Juice Ice.—Take one pint of sweetened grape juice one quart of thin cream, one tablespoonful of lemon juice and freeze as usual. Serve in sherbet cups with a spoonful of vanilla ice cream or a spoonful of whipped cream on top.

Bird's Nest Salad.—Line heart curled leaves of lettuce with finely cubed apples mixed with equal parts of finely shredded celery. Mix one canned pimiento finely mashed with mayonnaise; into this stir the apple and celery. Around the edge to carry out the idea of the nest, make a ring of chopped nuts. Peel and seed four large grapes and arrange in the nest. Serve with more dressing.

Pear and Almond Salad.—Peel very ripe pears, cut into halves, remove the core and place cut side down on hearts of lettuce. Cover with blanched quartered almonds and serve with a rich mayonnaise with a ball of cream cheese.

What Will you do

When your Children Cry for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And almost daily need of its comfort. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful, or restless, Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.

WILL ADVERTISE THIS SECTION IN THE EAST

One of the most intensive and comprehensive campaigns to sell the industrial and commercial advantages of San Francisco has been set in motion through the joint efforts of Californians Inc., and the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, it has been announced by S. F. B. Morse, president of Californians Inc.

Californians Inc., has taken over the advertising which the Chamber of Commerce will follow up with salesmanship under a plan which will take a trained representative to all of the principal cities of the East.

It was pointed out by Morse that in the summer advertising campaign, Californians Inc., featured San Francisco as "America's coolest summer city and headquarters of a marvelous vacation land," with the result that there was an increase of 28.6 per cent in automobile travel over the Eastern passes to San Francisco and a 39 per cent increase in tourists coming by steamer through the Panama Canal.

"This winter," Morse announces, "the campaign will carry forward into a new field. In a definite unity of effort with the Chamber of Commerce, San Francisco will be exploited as the industrial and central distributing point of Western America and the Pacific trading area."

"San Francisco need not be boastful," Morse continued; "the facts are here. Diversified cargoes make our harbor the second greatest port in America. Low water rates and abundant raw materials make a favorable economic factor in favor of this city as a manufacturing center. As for markets and distribution, no city in the West holds such a key position."

Regarding the participation of the Chamber of Commerce in the concentrated drive for new business and industries from the East, Philip J. Fay, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said:

"We are prepared to take full advantage of the advertising efforts of Californians Inc., and in anticipation of the industrial department has assembled a most complete set of statistics so that when an Eastern manufacturer writes for information we will supply him with a detailed report for his individual needs."

FORMER GOVERNOR AGAINST INITIATIVE 21

Stating that the Penal Code of California fully provides for the protection of animals against cruelty and that Initiative No. 21 is unnecessary and confusing to existing laws, Friend W. Richardson, former governor of California and president of the California Press Association, has gone on record as opposing the measure.

Richardson's letter addressed to Mr. Fred Weybret, publisher of the Salinas Index-Journal and director of the California Newspaper Publishers' Association, said: "I have attended a number of Rodeos or horse shows in your city, and was pleased with the parade of beautiful horses and thrilled at the excellent horsemanship. I took my young son with me, and surely would not have done so the second time had there been any display of cruelty. Section 597 of the Penal Code seems ample to prevent cruelty at other places. Your society would, I am sure, put on a high-class, humane show, even if there were no inhibitions in the California code."

In a letter being sent to the hotels of California by John F. Shea, secretary of the California Northern Hotel Men's Association, stating that the executive committee had unanimously voted to oppose Initiative No. 21, he said: "This measure, if carried, would abolish Rodeos, and eventually fairs, horse shows, historical celebrations, polo, etc., would meet the same fate. Hotel business and also other lines of business share in promoting these attractions and should endeavor to defeat Initiative No. 21. The Rodeos and similar celebrations have been traditional of California for many years, and as now conducted provide many thousands of people with good clean, wholesome amusement. All hotel owners and operators should cooperate with our executive committee and others who are opposing this measure."

DESTROY LANDMARK UNDER THREE FLAGS

The ancient, towering Monterey pine of Pescadero, a landmark under three flags, has been felled by workmen. Decay, believed to have been hastened by a severe burning which the big tree received a year ago when the old Swanson House, also a landmark, was burned to the ground, caused its destruction.

The pine, which stood at the "four corners" of highways leading to Butano Canyon, La Honda, Santa Cruz and San Gregorio, served as a landmark for the first exploring expeditions into this portion of California, it is said. It shaded the first settlers who migrated to Pescadero when the country was under Mexican rule. It towered over the little band of Americans who first raised the California Bear flag, proclaiming the country free from Mexican and Spanish domination, and for more than fifty years it had flourished under the Stars and Stripes which succeeded the California state standard.

The tree was recently declared a menace to safety, despite its solid trunk which measured more than 20 feet around the base. One side was badly burned in the hotel fire and the old tree was dying at the top, experts declared. Workmen measured the old trunk when it fell. It was 225 feet from tip to base.

WORLD'S MOST HUMAN PICTURE

The management of the State Theatre, Mission at Oliver streets, announces the booking for three days, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, October 16, 17 and 18, of what is described as the world's most human photoplay, "Motherhood." There will also be a Comedy and News reel and other attractions.

This Saturday, Chester Conklin and W. C. Fields in that splendid comedy, "Fools for Luck," will share honors with the Juvenile entertainers.

There will be two splendid features on Sunday, Jack Holt in "The Vanishing Pioneer," and an all star cast in "Her Summer Hero."

The bill for Monday includes Colleen Moore in "Happiness Ahead," and other attractions.

On Friday, October 19, in addition to "The Yellow Lily," in which Billie Dove and Clyde Brook have the leading roles, Eddie Adershow will be enjoyed by the State patrons.

Details of an extensive development and building program for the University of California campus at Berkeley, involving more than ten million dollars, have been announced.

OPPOSE REPEAL OF STATE BOXING LAW

The Women's Civic Center, an organization comprising a large number of representative women from various residential districts of San Francisco, has adopted resolutions strongly condemning Amendment No. 5, the initiative measure on the November ballot which seeks the repeal of the state boxing law.

Announcement to this effect has been made by the Center's president, Mrs. Annie A. Scanlon, following a dinner meeting at the Hotel Whitcomb last Wednesday night which was addressed by the Rev. Leslie C. Kelley, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, and chaplain of Galbraith Post, American Legion.

Chaplain Kelley, who has carried his fight against Amendment 5 before the boxing fans in speeches from the ring, and before women's clubs and civic organizations, was applauded to the echo when he described boxing as a clean sport, a man's sport, and characterized as another "intolerance" gesture the attempt of what he termed "professional reformers" to repeal the present law.

"I have made it my business during recent weeks," said Chaplain Kelley, "to see for myself the conditions under which boxing exhibitions are held, and I assert that I have seen nothing objectionable. I declare, and in this I am supported by many broad-minded men of the clergy of all faiths, that this 'abolish by law' business has been carried too far."

"If Amendment 5 carries we shall still have boxing, but we will have it under the regrettable conditions that prevailed during the period from 1914 to 1924. You remember the scandals, you remember the crookedness, that marked those days of the four-round so-called amateur system. The reason for those conditions lay in the fact that there was no supervision or control of boxers or promoters before the present law brought into being a State Athletic Commission which is ever seeking to improve conditions surrounding the sport."

"Did a fan really take a drink from a bottle during a recent boxing show? Possibly he was able to violate the law, but I have seen men do the same thing at football games. Does the crowd rise to its feet shouting at a critical moment of a bout? I have seen a crowd act that way at football games, and I have seen men carried off the football field with broken legs, with broken heads and ribs, some of them crippled for life. I am not criticizing football, infinitely more dangerous to participants than boxing, but wish merely to show how inconsistent enemies of supervised boxing can be."

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heller, of 378 Willits street, are receiving the congratulations of their many friends upon the arrival of a baby son, born last Monday morning at St. Joseph's hospital. Both mother and baby are doing nicely. This is the second child in the family, the other being a little girl.

Mrs. Louise Samuelson, of Peoria street, was removed to St. Luke's hospital last Sunday morning and was operated on the same morning for acute appendicitis. Mrs. Samuelson had recently returned from Norway, where she spent three months visiting relatives she had not seen for over thirty years.

Mrs. H. Fraser, of Peoria street, who has been suffering from heart trouble for several months, was removed to the Community hospital on Friday of last week. It was necessary to perform a blood transfusion last Sunday morning, her daughter, Miss Agnes, giving a quart and a half of her blood.

Joe Kilhoffer, proprietor of the El Camino Bakery, at Mission street and Templeton avenue, was severely burned about the face, neck and arms on Friday morning of last week while working in the bakery shop. In attempting to open the stove, it backfired, the flames covering his face and the upper portion of his body.

Mr. and Mrs. William Ruff, of Vendome avenue, entertained at dinner last Sunday evening in honor of Mrs. Ruff's birthday. A delicious Italian dinner was served to the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. V. Riccardo, Mr. and Mrs. William Hay, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Allen, Miss Lois Vinton, Mr. Henry Stutzer and Mr. and Mrs. William Ruff.

The Christian Endeavor of Grace Presbyterian church held a special meeting on last Wednesday evening at the home of the President, Miss Madie Irons, on Acton street. Plans were completed for the costume Halloween party to be held in the social hall of the church on Hanover street, on next Friday evening, October 19. All young folks who are interested in this work are cordially invited to attend.

Miss Frieda Grascowitz, of 3551 Twentieth street, San Francisco, whose body was recovered from the bay on Saturday of last week, at the foot of Mariposa street, was the niece of Paul Schlegel, of 56 Alp street, Daly City. Miss Grascowitz arrived in San Francisco from Germany last July. She became homesick and had made preparations to return to her home in Germany. Her ticket had been purchased for her return home and she was to have left last Wednesday to join her parents in Germany.

Miss Theresa Arnando, of 468 Vista Grande avenue, entertained a group of children last Saturday in honor of her sister, Celeste Arnando, who celebrated her eleventh birthday. The children were royally entertained with games and the table was prettily decorated in pink and blue crepe paper with favors to match. Celeste received many lovely gifts from her little friends. Those present were Patricia and Daniel O'Brian, Evelyn Hammer, Audrey Pfeiffer, Theresa Gavillo, Marian and Ernest Foss, Dora Capello, Johnny Slavio, and Theresa Arnando, and Mrs. and Mrs. Arnando.

Mrs. Susie Powers, of Templeton avenue, passed away on Friday of last week at her home after a short illness. She was the beloved wife of Bert E. Powers and mother of Ellsworth, George, Bert, Jr., and Allan Powers and Mrs. Ruby Delaney. The funeral was held last Monday morning at 10 o'clock from the mortuary chapel of W. C. Lasswell & Co., 6154 Mission street. Interment was at Cypress Lawn cemetery.

Mrs. Charles McKee, of 79 Irvington street, was pleasantly surprised last Saturday evening, the occasion being her birthday. Whist, games and singing were enjoyed during the evening, after which refreshments were served to the following: Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Lindsay and Mr. and Mrs. C. Gunter and daughter Dorothy, of Morgan Hill, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Hass, Mr. Phillip Hass, Miss Margaret Hass, Mrs. Charles W. McKee, Miss Evelyn McKee, Mr. Albert Stura, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. McKee.

The whist party held on last Friday evening, October 5, in Eagles Hall, by the Crocker-Pershing P. T. A., was the most successful affair ever held by this organization. The ladies wish to thank their many friends and the merchants of Daly City who so kindly helped to make the party such a huge success. There were about forty tables of whist, and up to date $120 has been realized from the game. The next regular meeting of the association will be held the first Tuesday afternoon in November, at 2 o'clock, in the Pershing school. All mothers are urged to join and help along the good cause.

Trailing of a $2.50 gold piece worn as a luck charm, led to the arrest at San Jose of three men and a woman, charged with committing a series of recent robberies. The men are said to have used black grease paint as a disguise and the woman to have worn men's clothing while assisting her companions.

Dolores Duacho was arrested at Riverside for allowing seven persons to ride in and on his small car. It was the first arrest under a new ordinance which makes it unlawful for any person to sit or stand on the fenders or running board of a moving street car or other vehicle.

While two men were riding in a towed car in Burlingame, the rope parted, became entangled on the steering wheel, causing the car to crash into a tree, both men being painfully injured.

The Right Place

—People who wouldn't think of going to any but a good, reputable dealer for food, clothing or furniture, patronize the worst kind of "dumps" when it comes to buying tires. They do this thinking it necessary in order to get a tire bargain.

—We'll sell you the best tire made—a Goodyear—at a price as low as you can get anywhere.

The New Prices:

	All-Weather	Pathfinder
29x4.40 Balloon	$9.20	$7.70
30x3½ C. L. Oversize	$8.35	$6.75

VOLUME II FRIDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1928 NUMBER 11

Published in the interests of the People of Daly City and vicinity by H. H. Smith and Employees.

Please: "Where did you spend your vacation?"
Replace: "Tiajuana."
Torn: "Play any golf down there?"
Up: "They don't play golf down there."
Turf: "What! Never heard of the golf of Mexico?"—Iowa Fri-vol.

First Urchin: "Doctor Smith brought our baby."
Second Urchin: "We take from him, too."

Buffets — Kitchen Cases, made to order.

Dentist: "Awfully sorry, miss, just tore off a piece of your gum."

Patient: "That's all right. Just stick it under the chair and I'll get it as I go out."

The cream of all absent minded professors is the one who, about to start on a journey, filled his wife with gasoline, kissed his road map goodbye and tried to shove his automobile into his pocket.

Calveras Cement—Rock, Sand, Gravel, Etc.

"Why are you putting that envelope back in your mail box?"
"Sh! That's a decoy."

I eat my peas with honey;
I've done it all my life;
It makes the peas taste funny,
But it keeps them on my knife.

"When I was born I was so surprised I went a year without saying a word."

Mother: "Jimmie, if you saw a man starving, would you give him a piece of pie?"
Jimmie: "No, ma, you said a person shouldn't eat pie on an empty stomach."

Ask "ABERDEEN" users. They are best advertisements. It's different.

Gratitude
"Are you the man who saved my boy from drowning when he fell off the dock?"
"Yes."
"Well, where's his cap?"

Correction does much, but encouragement does more.
